III. Stakeholder Networks

Resources available for Stakeholders

Self-organized stakeholder networks

IPBES encourages the self-organization of an inclusive, open-ended network of stakeholders representing their diversity, working primarily on a virtual basis.

Two networks are active:

ONet

Open-Ended Network of IPBES Stakeholders

facilitated by a small team of volunteers
let us know if you would like to become part of it!

IIFBES

International Indigenous Forum on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IIFBES)

led by the Global network of Centers of Distinction on Indigenous and Local Knowledge (COD-ILK)

These networks co-lead the preparations for the IPBES Stakeholder Day(s).

IIFBES

International Indigenous Forum on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IIFBES)

Note: The IIFBES pages are hosted on the IPBES website, but IPBES is not responsible for their contents, nor do their contents necessarily reflect the views or official position of IPBES.

What is IIFBES?

The International Indigenous Forum on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IIFBES) is an open-ended, self-organizing network that aims to bring together members of Indigenous Peoples and local communities who are interested in the work of the Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Service (IPBES). The Network aims to facilitate and enhance the effective participation of Indigenous Peoples and local communities in IPBES processes, taking into account the diversity of its members. You can read more about the formation of IIFBES here.

If you are Indigenous or from a local community and wish to be part of IIFBES:

If you are NOT Indigenous or from a local community but wish to be informed about IIFBES activities:

ONet - Open-ended Network of IPBES Stakeholders

Bring all stakeholders and groups of stakeholders interested in the Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Service (IPBES) together includes f.e. Social Sciences and Humanities network (SSH) and the Young Ecosystem Specialists network (YESS)

What we do:

- ONet fosters communication between stakeholders and IPBES.
- Provide information on IPBES.
- Co-organise Stakeholder Days prior to each plenary. Coordinate stakeholder statements at the plenaries.
- Help disseminate IPBES products and achievements.
- Support capacity-building in service of biodiversity and nature's contributions to people.
- ONet strengthens support for IPBES. Engage with different groups and communities. Mobilise intangible and in-kind contributions to the platform.
- Host an online space for the stakeholder community. Here you can find other stakeholders, share events, publish your news, stories and insights, and more.

IV. Next opportunities to engage with IPBES

Timeline of IPBES assessments

Get involved in the IPBES assessments!

Call for expert nominations

- Apply to serve as an expert (nominations by member countries and observer organisations)
- Participate in the IPBES early career Fellows Programme

External review periods

- Register to be a reviewer
- Submit comments on the chapters and SPM

Stakeholder dialogue workshops

- Discuss key points and questions with authors and experts
- Support knowledge-building work by contributing expertise, data or other resources

Stakeholder day prior each plenary

- Discuss with other stakeholders and help building opening statement from stakeholder to ask for any change or improvement in the process

Adoption at Plenary

- Contribute to your National Focal Point/National delegation's expertise

Following Plenary (After publication)

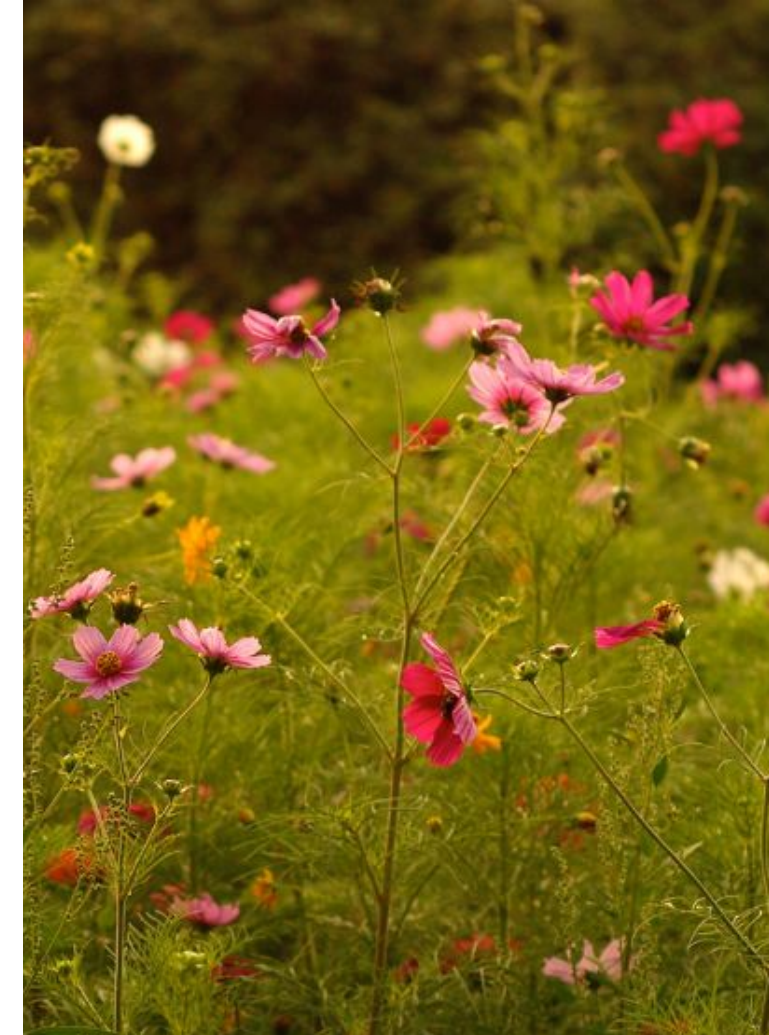

- Use and help disseminate key findings and outcomes of the assessment
- Use IPBES Reports to help inform your own decision-making
- Organise an uptake event

Roles in the assessments

- Co-chairs – oversee the preparation of the assessment, including the summary for policymakers
- Coordinating lead authors – coordinate the work of the lead authors, fellows and contributing authors for the production of the chapters; and also assume the functions of lead authors
- Lead authors – produce sections of the chapters. The essence of the lead authors' role is to synthesize material drawn from the available literature and fully justified unpublished sources
- Review editors – ensure that all substantive expert and government review comments are afforded appropriate consideration
- External Reviewers – your possibility to provide your expertise!

Separate call

- Fellows – develop sections or parts of the chapters in collaboration with authors (mentorship programme)

>> Guide on IPBES Assessments

The Fellowship Programme

- The IPBES Fellowship Programme | IPBES secretariat
- Under 35-year-old
- preferably not more than 5-7 years after having completed their academic degree
- Fellows are an integral part of the IPBES assessment chapters and they collaborate with the coordinating lead authors (CLAs) and lead authors (LAs) in developing sections or parts of the chapters
- Fellows are paired up with a senior expert in their assessment that will act as a mentor for the fellow for the duration of their fellowship.
- Represented in all UN regions, the IPBES Fellowship Alumni represent a "community of practice" working together to mobilize resources and expertise to develop cross-cultural collaborations and support IPBES's mission

2nd external review of the Nexus and Transformative assessments

The second order draft (SOD) of the chapters and the first draft of the summary for policymakers (SPM) will be open for external review

Nexus Assessment

from 20 November 2023 to 14 January 2024 (8 weeks)
for the thematic assessment of the interlinkages among biodiversity, water, food and health

Transformative Change Assessment

from 4 December 2023 to 28 January 2024 (8 weeks)
for the thematic assessment of the underlying causes of biodiversity loss, determinants of transformative change and options for achieving the 2050 vision for biodiversity

Methodological assessment on monitoring biodiversity and nature's contribution to people

- At IPBES10 the Plenary approved the undertaking of above mentioned assessment
- The objective of the monitoring assessment is to support national and global efforts to:
 - (a) monitor biodiversity, nature's contributions to people and the direct and underlying causes of the observed changes; and
 - (b) specifically monitor progress towards the goals and targets of the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework in support of a balanced and enhanced implementation of the Convention on Biological Diversity.

The assessment will also contribute to the monitoring of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and its Sustainable Development Goals and other relevant multilateral environmental agreements, processes and efforts.

Task force on Scenarios and models

Responsible for the implementation of objective 4(b) advanced work on scenarios and models

Main activities:

- Support the use of scenarios and models in IPBES assessments
- Further develop the methodological guidance on the Nature Futures Framework
- Promote dialogue between IPBES and communities of practice on scenarios and models

Nominees should:

- have expertise in qualitative and quantitative approaches to scenarios, models and other futures studies, including in discussing and testing the Nature Futures Framework, and;
- be able to effectively promote dialogue between the task force and the communities of practice on scenarios and models.

Nomination call (deadlines)

19 December (expert) & 4-6 January 2024 (government/stakeholder approval)

Experts for the methodological assessment on monitoring biodiversity and NCP assessment
